Governor Pleads for Relief From Job-Hunting Army

It Consumes Four-Fifths of His Time, Futrell Declares

POWER IS LIMITED

He Declares Proper Applications Should Be Made Elsewhere

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Appealing to job-seekers to give him a rest, Governor Futrell in a statement Tuesday said he had spent "four-fifths of my working time since the primary last year talking to people about jobs."

"There have been 100 applications for each possible place," said the governor.

"I do not make the appointments which are being sought. The law does not authorize me to make these, and people should not make their applications to me when someone else has the appointive power."

The governor explained that he has the appointive power over only a few positions to which salaries are attached. But job-hunters continue to press their demands upon him both at his office and his home for aid in obtaining places, for which they really should apply to others.

FLOODED BY STORM

Grim Tragedy at 5 A. M. Tuesday in New Mexico

TUCUMCARI, N. M.—(P)—

At least six persons were killed, 40 injured and many passengers were missing when the Golden State Limited, Rock Island crack train, plunged through a bridge into a water-filled draw five miles west of here at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Engineer C. J. Crost and four unidentified passengers were killed.

Fireman James Randall is missing. The injured were rushed to a hospital here.

Seven coaches went into the water and were partly submerged. The engine was completely under water with the mail coach, on top of it, partly submerged.

The draw, ordinarily dry, was a raging torrent fed by heavy rains, climaxed by a 4-inch rain Monday night. The engine was the only one identified among the dead.

Three men and two women passengers, killed in the first day coach, were unidentified. Five Pullmans remained on the bridge.

The train was traveling at 20 miles an hour when it went through the bridge.

Here's an Industry Panic Didn't Touch

Mammoth Spring, Ark., Makes Money Furnishing Green Plants for Goldfish Bowls

MAMMOTH SPRING, Ark.—(P)—From Mammoth spring and upper Spring river, which flows from the huge spring, water plants and fishmoss are gathered and shipped to pet stores and goldfish dealers throughout the United States.

The industry furnishes employment for several men and is declared to be profitable even during the depression.

Fishmoss is the green water plant used in fish bowls and aquariums. It serves as food for ornamental fishes and is an oxygenator, which is essential to goldfish and tropical fish.

The water plants, such as Ludwigia, Sagittaria, Parrot's-feather, Anacharis, Arrowhead, and water lilies are sometimes used in goldfish bowls but are sold primarily for lily pools and out-door aquariums. Water-cress is used for table purposes.

An Aquarium Product

The industry started several years ago with the gathering of fishmoss. Two kinds grow at Mammoth Spring, Myriophyllum and Ceratophyllum. The former is used most extensively, and is recognized by gold and tropical fish culturists as one of the best plants for use in aquariums.

Water-cress was added to the industry and only recently gatherers have discovered a market for the other plants.

About 15 different kinds of water plants grow in the clear, cold water of Mammoth Spring and upper Spring river, but a market has been found for only a few of them. Parrot's feather, a native of marsh lands farther south, has been introduced and is cultivated during the summer. Water hyacinths, a floating plant, also a

Natatorium Corp. Organized; City to Donate the Land

Board of Nine Directors Headed by Rounton as President

MEMBERSHIP OPEN

Anyone in Hempstead County Eligible for Nominal $1 Fee

The City of Hope, by unanimous vote of the city council in special session Monday night, agreed to give as much land as is needed in Fair Park for the site of the proposed natatorium; and citizens immediately proceeded to organize the non-profit corporation which is to negotiate with the U. S. Public Works Administration.

The city council and mayor endorsed the natatorium project informally, with the understanding that when the non-profit corporation is ready the city will deed it the required land in a formal resolution. Discussion before the council indicated that the amount would run from 5 to 10 acres, of the total of 40 acres in Fair Park.

Following the council's action, representatives of Hope's seven civic organizations withdrew from the council-room and met in Mayor Ruffin's office to organize the non-profit corporation.

"Natatorium Corporation" They resolved on the name "Hope Natatorium Corporation," papers for which will be filed with the circuit court this week. A committee, E. F. McFaddin, L. Carter Johnson and A. H. Washburn, was named to draft the incorporation papers.

The 13 persons present were declared stockholders of the corporation on payment of a nominal $1 fee, and it was voted to make anyone residing in Hempstead county eligible for membership on payment of $1.

The corporation stockholders will meet once a year and elect from 5 to 15 directors, but will start the first year determined upon, giving one director to each of the seven civic organizations, one to the city council, and one from the city at large.

9 Directors Chosen

The following directors, with the agencies they represent, were chosen Monday night:

Chad Hall, American Legion.

Mr. L. Carter Johnson, Legion Auxiliary.

J. P. Duffie, Rotary club.

Sid Bundy, Kiwanis club.

Mrs. Frank Russell, Business & Professional Women's club.

Carter Johnson, Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. C. D. Lester, Parent-Teachers association.

Roy Anderson, city council.

Ralph Rounton, city-at-large.

The board elected Mr. Rounton president; Mrs. Johnson, vice-president; and Mr. Hall secretary-treasurer.

While only 13 persons were present Monday night, as large a membership as possible will be solicited. The first 13 are:

Mrs. L. Carter Johnson, Mrs. Dorsey McRae, Mrs. Frank Russell, Mrs. Frank Hicks, Miss Maude Lipscomb, Miss Jack Padden.

E. F. McFaddin, Sid Bundy, Joe R. Floyd, L. Carter Johnson, A. H. Washburn, R. B. Stanford, Ralph Rounton.

Hope's Executive NRA Group Named

Committee of Five Named to Head Up Local Administration

An executive committee to head up NRA activities in Hope was announced Tuesday by A. H. Washburn, acting as president of the old Hope Chamber of Commerce organization.

The committee, which was to hold its first meeting at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the city hall, is as follows: E. F. McFaddin, O. A. Graves, Lloyd Spencer, E. I. Rephan and J. P. Duffie.

Ex-officio members will be: Mr. Washburn, and the two vice-presidents of the old Chamber of Commerce, J. R. Henry and L. Carter Johnson.

The NRA voluntary organization in each community is organized around the chamber of commerce or some similar civic group. In the larger cities President Roosevelt sent a personal telegram to the president of the chamber of commerce asking him to proceed with setting up a community organization to report on progress of the NRA. In the smaller cities the local postmaster forwarded instructions to whatever civic organization the town might have.

Assisting the executive committee will be an advisory group comprising representatives from each of the seven civic organizations here.

Complaints of unfair practices, or alleged violations of the Blue Eagle agreement, will be aired before special trade committees, and, if further action is required, will be taken up by the executive committee.

No punitive action of any description will be permitted by any local committee, after being thoroughly investigated, shall be reported by the executive committee to the NRA regional office at Memphis, Tenn.

If disciplinary action is necessary, governmental authority will proceed from the regional office.

No final proceedings can be taken against any firm or individual without authority from the NRA regional office—and this caution is urged on all committees, now and for the future.

Secretary Ickes Dictator for Oil

President Roosevelt to Name 14 Aides for Control Board

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(P)—President Roosevelt Tuesday named Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, as administrator of the new working agreement for the oil industry.

The president will name the other 14 members of the Oil Planning and Conservation Committee within the next 24 hours, taking under consideration a list of names submitted by Ickes.

As oil administrator, Ickes will have virtual dictatorial powers over the industry.

Coal Code Completed

WASHINGTON—(P)—The long sought agreement on essentials for a competitive code for the bituminous coal industry was announced Monday night by Hugh S. Johnson.

The industrial administrator, disclosing the result of the four days of conferences between operators and miners' representatives, said the administration was willing to recommend the agreement to the president and that it cleared the way for an acceptable code.

His announcement came at the end of a day that had brought a warning from him to the conferees that the president was closely watching their progress and was anxious to have the coal code put into operation.

Provisions of Code

It was said in one usually reliable quarter that the coal miners' union and operators had agreed to a $4.60 basic daily wage with a 48-hour week. The Southern fields would get the same 40-cent differential, it was said, that the original and substitute non-union code contained.

The 40-hour week would continue during a six months trial period to expire April 1. During that time, a government commission would make a thorough study of the relation of hours to wages and competitive conditions with a view to determining whether the producers could stand a cut in hours.

The operators were said still to have resisted the union's insistence that provision for the "check-off"—deduction of union dues from miners' pay—be included in the code. Likewise, they were said to have stood firmly behind their "automobile" labor clause.

That clause, placed in their substitute code after President Roosevelt approved similar wording in the automobile code, provided that employers could hire, discharge, promote and demote employees on the basis of individual merit without regard to the employee's membership or non-membership in any organization.

Blue Eagle Goes Up at Basket Co. Factory in Hope

Minimum of 23 Cents an Hour Under Lumber Code

WEEK IS 40 HOURS

Manager G. J. MacGregor Posts Bulletin at Local Plant

A payroll increase of approximately $5,000 a month for the 200 employees of Hope Basket company was announced Tuesday by Manager G. J. MacGregor under a sub-section of the lumber code, the basket company having subscribed to President Roosevelt's NRA agreement.

There will be some increase in employment, Mr. MacGregor said, it becoming necessary to reduce a few 16-hour positions to 8 hours.

The plant was unable to announce the details of wage increases for individual workers, but the percentage increase will be very large, and this announcement will be made as soon as the management has completed its schedule.

The wage increase will be retroactive, going back to Thursday, August 24.

The plant has been employing 200 persons, on two 8-hour shifts.

Mr. MacGregor has just returned from a meeting of the Southwest Package association at Marshall, Texas, last Saturday, where he obtained the preliminary details for operations under his section of the lumber code.

The plant, management was here Tuesday working out the new wage schedule.

Plant Bulletin

Under date of Tuesday, August 29, Mr. MacGregor issued the following bulletin to all employees of the local plant:

To all employees:

Since the National Recovery Act went into effect our basket industry submitted a code of fair practices to the president. This code was accepted and we are now operating under a sub-division of the National Lumber Products Code.

This means we will pay increased wages, and by working shorter hours will be able to continue to employ our present number of employees and may be able later to employ more.

Under the code, with some exceptions, you are only allowed to work 40 hours per week.

Just what the various rates of increased pay will be we are unable to say now as there are a great number of details to be worked out; however, you are assured that rates will not be lower than twenty-three cents ($23) per hour. These rates are applicable from the start of our last payroll week and will be reflected in your next pay-check.

We appreciate your support and loyalty and want to assure you that just as soon as final details can be worked out you will be advised. When this is done we believe we will all be benefitted even more than now.

Home's Payments Cut to $6 Month

First U. S. Refinancing of Homes Reported for Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK—R. Frank Milwore, state manager for the Home Owners Loan corporation, made the first loan of the corporation in Arkansas Monday to Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Cloud of Little Rock.

Mr. Milwore said that his office has received notice of only two other loans being made in the country.

When the Travelers Building & Loan association was placed in receivership last year, Mr. Cloud had paid $600 on a $1,200 mortgage held by the association on his home. His loan was revalued at $1,000.

Mr. Ketcher took over the mortgage at $1,000 and Mr. Cloud had paid $250 of this amount by June 1 this year but was unable to make any further payments. He had been paying $22 a month and accrued interest on the balance of the mortgage to Mr. Ketcher.

The corporation loan will be amortized in 15 years by monthly payments of $6.21. Mrs. Cloud, who is employed at the J. C. Penney Company store here, makes the entire income for the family.

The Leaning Tower of Pisa was meant to rise straight from the ground but sank on one side when only 35 feet high, so its builders just finished it that way.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

At Capone Has Job Fixing Shoes at Alabama... President Opposed Sending Warships to Cuba, Fearing Insurrection... President Green of A. F. of L. Was Ready to Quit After Row With Steel Men.

WASHINGTON—While Professor Capone improves his health at a shoe repairing machine in Atlanta penitentiary.

He has lost 20 pounds in 16 months there. He will be overweight until he loses as much more. But he has six additional years of half-soling in which to do it. He works an eight-hour shift.

Garrulity is reported as his chief fault. He behaves well, asks no favors. They told him when he entered that even if he managed to bribe a few favors, he was so conspicuous that it would be discovered. That would mean loss of three or four years off for good behavior. Al saw the point.

He remains broke at newspapers, believing they broke up his deal for a three-year sentence. (His sentence was for 11 years.) And he's still outraged because he was "persecuted" for delivering a commodity people wanted.

Hard to Please

"I'd like to have them like it," said Administrator Hugh S. Johnson as he prepared a coal code for the bituminous operators. "but as far as I can see, you can't get anybody to like anything."

Secretary of State Hull and President Roosevelt both balked at sending American destroyers to Cuba.

They yielded only after urgent insistence by Ambassador Welles, who telephoned that they were necessary to exert a calming effect, that by the time they arrived the situation might be quiet or might be infinitely worse.

For days Roosevelt, Hull and Welles were badly worried. Would Machado, the rebels or a dangerous mob get—and keep—the upper hand? Everyone feared that we might have to intervene.

That was the last thing the administration wanted. Roosevelt lays great store by the convention of 21 American republics at Montevideo in November and knows how intractable interventionism like Latin Americans.

Labors' "Hush-Hush" Policy

Labors' representatives here have adopted a hush-hush policy.

Secretary of Labor Perkins believes that the dirty linen of the persistent capital-labor scrap shouldn't be washed in public and did her best to tone down the publicity that followed refusal of steel barons to confer in her office while President Green of the A. F. of L. was there.

Under Miss Perkins, the Labor Department policy has become one of avoiding publicity on anything likely to start controversies. Even official acts.

Green Ready to Quit

Green spilled the story of the steel men after the Labor Advisory board had decided to keep quiet about it. Chairman Leo Wolman of the board was angry about the leak.

Green, it is now whispered, wrote his resignation from the board after General Johnson had denied his status as labor adviser on the steel code. He was mollified when Johnson and aides drafted a statement to cover up the general's error and admit Green's position (Earlier, Green had threatened to resign over an international L. A. B. argument).

Johnson's Brother

Mrs. Johnson and her son are working for NRA, but the general brother, Aleck, who ran for Congress last year, has yet to be taken in.

Aleck Johnson told friends he expected to be made public works administrator for Oklahoma. But that was before the public works program was taken from the general's hands and before it was known there would be no state administrators.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Hurried, last-minute shopping never pays when it comes to buying shoes. Don't select your first fall dress, hat, gloves and bag in an orderly manner and then dash frantically into the nearest shoe salon to get your shoes.

Naturally, you want your shoes to look nice and flatter your feet. But don't sacrifice beauty for comfort. Makers of fine shoes know that a good shoe can be handsome and comfortable at the same time.

Consideration of your arches is all-important, for the height of the heel and shape of the shoe depends on it.

Odd as it may sound, there are some women who have arches which are not comfortable in heels that are flat. So, if your feet ache, don't assume that it is caused by the high heels you are wearing. Consult a foot specialist. It's possible that the arches in the shoes are all wrong.

As a rule, you're likely to be more comfortable in medium-height walking heels.

See that your new fall shoes are long enough. It's better to get a whole size larger than to have your toes covered with corns before full is well under way.

NEXT: Fall beauty hints.

Lawyer Goes All to Pieces in "The Paradine Case"

BY BRUCE CATTON

In "The Paradine Case," Robert Hitchens undertakes to do two things: to show the slow deterioration of a lawyer who is so ill-advised as to fall in love with a lady he is defending on a murder charge, and to provide an atmosphere of horror and suspense which rises to a climax when the jury brings in its verdict.

His success, one must report, is only moderate. Perhaps it is because the book is way too long; perhaps because so many of the characters seem to be pompous and humorless asses. There is good entertainment in the book, but it is buried pretty deep beneath a lot of words.

Our lawyer is a successful British attorney with a brilliant record as defense counsel in murder cases. He is rich, popular, blessed with a charming and devoted wife, and all goes well with him until he is retained to act for Mrs. Paradine, who is accused of poisoning her husband.

His client first puzzles, then fascinates and finally entralls him. He wobbles and wavers, wrecks his own home, destroys his reputation—and, to cap it all, loses his judgment so that instead of getting his client off he sends her to the gallows.

Accompanying this is the slow crescendo of fear which Mr. Hitchens builds up. The judge who tries the case is revealed, bit by bit, as a sadistic monster; and the trial itself lays bare, slowly and eminently a gruesome crime. The final third of the book, in fact, is pretty exciting. The only trouble is that a lot of readers are going to stop before they get that far.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE HAYLES, pretty maid waiting to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, married DICK BARNES, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wanted Eve to give up working but she refused.

ARLENE SMITH, stenographer in the advertising office, fancies herself in love with GEORGE BLISS, but he is camped by MARY ALLEN, trouble-making copy writer.

EVE receives a letter from HENRY PERKINS, a former acquaintance who is playing the stock market. Eve decides to do the same thing. Without Dick's knowledge she borrows money from her mother and with it buys stock.

At a party given by FREDERICK CARTER, buyer in Bixby's, SAM HOLTERRIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes intimate with Arlene. Eve is annoyed by the attentions of FREDERICK REECE whom she met in New York. Reece takes her home when Dick fails to come for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

AT 10 o'clock the next morning Eve answered her desk phone to find Theron Reece on the line. "How about luncheon at my hotel this noon?" he asked.

"That would be impossible," Eve answered curtly.

"Let's make it the Music Box then," he urged. "We can dance." "No—a thousand times, no!" Eve answered and hung up the receiver.

Arlene looked over with a grin. "For whom were those cold, cruel words?" she teased.

"That man Reece," answered Eve with contempt in her voice. "As though I would go to lunch with him!"

In a few moments Mona received a telephone call which she answered in monosyllables. Later she surprised Eve by asking her to have lunch with her at a fashionable Italian restaurant. Inasmuch as this was the first overture of its kind Mona had made toward her Eve felt that she should accept.

When they reached the street at noon they found the dazzling lights in the February sunshine. There were crunching sounds under their heels as they crossed the snow-packed street. Within the entrance to the New Arcade stood a boy with a tray of violets. Eve stopped and bought a bunch which she pinned high on her fur collar so that they nestled close to her chin. As she breathed their fragrance a feeling of sweet contentment came over her.

The feeling persisted as she and Mona entered the revolving doors of the restaurant. Mona tripped before Eve, her extreme French heels sinking into the deep pile of the carpet as she led the way up the short flight of iron steps to a little balcony. She said something to the waiter which Eve did not catch and they were seated at a table near the rail where they could see the diners below. The waiter removed a card marked "Reserved" and took their order.

EVE glanced about her and nodded to three girl acquaintances. Then she happened to catch the eye of Earle Barnes who was seated at a small table with a strikingly pretty woman, fashionably dressed. Barnes nodded.

"Who's the lady friend Barnes has out to lunch?" asked Mona.

"That," responded Eve, "is Mrs. Barnes. She comes to the office only on rare occasions. She really is very sweet and always dresses beautifully."

"She ought to be able to do a lot for herself," Mona went on. "There would be no excuse for Barnes' wife looking like the year before last—with the salary he makes!"

Eve said nothing.

"How much do you suppose he gets?" Mona persisted.

"I'm sure I haven't the slightest idea," Eve told her. "But everyone knows he's a highly valued employee of Bixby's."

"Think of all you could do on a salary like his!" Mona said dreamily.

Eve looked at the other girl curiously. Surely Mona did not aspire to Barnes' job—or did she? It was difficult to tell what went on behind that baby face. Just now Mona seemed the very essence of sweet, innocent girlhood. Her round, blue eyes had a wistful expression as she related them excitedly. From under her chic black hat a few blond curls showed. Her simple black dress with its low neckline was studiously cut to do full justice to Mona's attractive figure.

Eve was surprised to see Dick enter the restaurant with three other men. They took a table on the main floor and Eve could watch them easily from her place on the balcony. She said nothing about it to Mona. After their order was given the men bent their heads over a blueprint which one of them spread on the table and they became engrossed in conversation.

Suddenly Mona smiled brightly. "Oh, there you are!" came a masculine voice from behind Eve. She turned and saw Theron Reece. He smiled and bowed in a mocking manner.

And still it took a while before Eve realized she had fallen into their trap. That telephone call for Mona after Eve had refused to go to lunch with Reece had been from him of course!

Their spaghetti arrived, steaming hot, on platters with silver covers. Eve could not very well leave without making a scene. She broke off a bit of French bread, ate it while Reece gave his order to the sleek waiter. Soon Mona and Reece were engaged in a gay conversation. Eve said very little. Now and then she glanced down at Dick but never met his eye.

SURELY Mona would prefer to be alone with Reece. Why then had she plotted with him unless she enjoyed causing Eve vexation? Eve puzzled over the situation.

Reece's bantering remarks seemed to touch upon all the activities of the times. Thus it was not long before he mentioned the market. "I dropped around to the stock exchange this morning," he

BY SISTER MARY

In many localities the peach and apple crops are definitely "short" this year. This makes these fruits high and scarce and indirectly affects the price of all fruits with the result that many housewives feel it impossible to put up their usual amount of jellies and jams.

However, there are a few vegetables that make delicious and unusual sweets. Carrots are especially good. The vegetable marrow can be used. Beets are attractive and combine well with fruits. And tomatoes which really are a fruit but have been classed with the vegetables are so good alone or in combination, green or ripe, red or yellow, that they will be keenly appreciated during the winter months.

Suggested Combinations

Carrots used in combination with citrus fruits act as filler and tend to make the flavor more delicate. New carrots are more desirable than old ones for this purpose. This combination is quite common.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Chilled apple sauce, cereal, cream, spinach on toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Tomatoes filled with eggs, prune bread, peach tapioca pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner: Baked veal chops, potatoes au gratin, Kentucky wonder beans, tomato and cabbage salad, fresh elderberry pie, milk, coffee.

Green tomatoes used in combination with lemons and ginger root produce a marmalade that has a pleasing tang. The tiny yellow tomatoes, cooked until transparent in a heavy syrup, make one of the most delicious preserves in the category. Lemon juice and ginger root can be added or the tomatoes used alone. Three pounds of sugar to four pounds of fruit is the rule. Scald and peel tomatoes and drop into the boiling syrup. Then simmer very gently so as not to break the shape of the tomatoes and cook until they are clear and the syrup is thick.

Vegetable marrow jam is unusual and has an oriental tang. It's particularly good to serve with rice croquettes or any combination in which rice takes the place of potatoes.

Vegetable Marrow Jam

Three pounds marrows (weighed after drying), 3 lemons, 3 ounces ginger root, 3 pounds sugar (about).

The marrows should be not more than half grown. Pare and remove seeds. Cut in thin slices and then in match-like strips. Weigh. Make a syrup of 2 pounds sugar and 4 cups water. When boiling add marrows and simmer ten minutes. Remove from fire, cover with a clean cloth and let stand two days. Drain off syrup. Weigh again and allow pound for pound of sugar and marrows. Put marrows, sugar, grated rind and juice of lemons and the ginger root preserved and tied in a muslin bag into preserved kettle. Boil slowly until clear. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

That was a good break for Sam Gray of the Browns... being waived to Washington and what looks like a world series... the Washington pitching staff, by the way, has been standing up pretty well under a lot of punishment... starting pitchers being sent to the bull pen day after day... and doing relief work... which has ruined better stuff than that of the Senators.

New York's grandstand managers are casting aspersions at McCarthy's handling of the Yanks... with all the material and money in the world at his disposal, but with a ball club that has acquired self-folding attachments... and last year at this time, with the Yanks far ahead, they were saying that the same McCarthy was pretty hot stuff.

'Big Executive' Is Exciting Picture

Ricardo Cortez, Richard Bennett at Saenger Tuesday-Wednesday

Paramount's "Big Executive," exciting drama of the private life of a handsome young Wall Street king, shows Tuesday and Wednesday at the Saenger. Ricardo Cortez, Richard Bennett, Elizabeth Young and Sharon Lynne are prominent in the large cast. The film is an original by Alice Duer Miller, famous Saturday Evening Post writer.

"Big Executive" is the story of a new-generation financier played by Ricardo Cortez, who skyrockets to fortune with his clever manipulations in the market. He has clear sailing until he attempts to swing a deal with a gruff, blustering, old-school financial power, played by Richard Bennett.

Complications ensue when Bennett discovers that Cortez is in love with his great-granddaughter, and he decides to break the impending match and Cortez at the same time.

A dramatic series of events follows, in which the two powerful rivals are seen gathering their forces, each attempting to strip the other of power, glory and wealth. The film reaches its conclusion in an exciting and unusual climax.

Making her screen debut in "Big Executive" is Elizabeth Young, prominent New York society girl, who plays the role of the Commodore's great-granddaughter.

She Flew Back Home to Mother O'Neal to Pursue Watchful Policy

Denies He Is Reconciled, But Declares He Will Have Patience

Some of our people are being advised that I am now favorable to the sale of beer.

Not so, I have seen people drunk on beer and I am always and unalterably opposed to drunkenness. A man in my office stated positively yesterday that the beer not being used in Arkansas legally is of much less than 3.2 alcoholic content and does not make one drunk with any reasonable drinking.

The brewers are just biding their time, and will make us all sorry in time.

A plan is already on foot to camouflage another special session of the legislature, called to repeal all of our liquor laws in Arkansas. The wets never quit, nor do they have any conscientious scruples.

Personally I am not reconciled to the sale of beer, but I am going to have patience and see it work itself out once more.

I have a hotel building at Gurdon in which the lessee wanted to sell beer. When she and I could not agree a plan was worked out to wait, just wait and see how matters turn out.

To sell beer may not be as good a deal as many people now think. Later it came to me that one of my own kindfolks boarding in the hotel is selling the stuff. Did not say a word to me in any way. It may not be true. Remember me to the old song, "The fight is on."
